

Figure 3. Triple G re-plant soil bioassay: seed grown in soil collected from fields where incorporated mustard cover crops were optimally planted (1st row) and planted 10 days late (2nd row) produced more vigorous seedlings 2 weeks post seeding compared to the soil collected from a field that was left bare ground over the winter (3rd row). Photo: C. Hoepting.