

AMAZING - The best part was how committed everyone was to cultivating a warm and welcoming space.

i think the best part for me was finally learning to graft, which has long been a goal for me. i also enjoyed connecting with a younger, more diverse beekeeping community.

Queen school was a fabulous time to meet fellow beekeepers from all levels and specialties (hobbyist through professional). I got to experience so many different perspectives and learn more about beekeeping from a larger scope. I loved that everyone brought something different to the table and no one was looked down on or excluded.

A welcoming supportive environment to explore different aspects and practices in beekeeping and queen rearing

Queen school is an amazing experience! Anyone who is interested in honey bees and beekeeping, I would highly recommend attending. The BEST part about be school was being in community with so many amazing individuals who are passionate and/or extremely knowledgeable about bees.

really genuine , open hearted people with lots of skill sets to share with all who attended

I told people I was going back to Queen School to catch up with my new like-minded beekeeper friends from last year, learning and demo'ing advanced practices well beyond me currently, from the QS instructors and experts. The best parts are having the support from TKBs and the other students and experts to discuss our operations and how things have changed since May 2022 when this new journey began.

Queen School is the best experience to have under your belt for beginners and experienced beekeepers. It is full of education, different walks of life and full of loveable people. The best part was everything Wonderfully interactive program that reinforced things I'd learned previously with actions.

One of the best beekeeping lessons I've ever learned. The best part was the advanced class about DCA and Insemination.

I learned SO much and had a great time camping and meeting fellow beekeepers! Ang and Bi graciously welcomed us to their property and provided a fabulous community atmosphere. The experience of being there and being able to apply what we learned in a hands-on way was the absolute best!

For me the best part was sharing in a community of like minded people who can relate to what I'm experiencing on a regular basis in beekeeping. The range of skill levels and collaborative approach to learning helps me fill in gaps, while also giving me the opportunity to challenge what I think I know.

I would describe it to a friend as a good professional development opportunity to expand your beekeeping practice sustainably.

The over all vibes of the bee yard and hosts Ang & Bi, extremely welcoming and easy to learn from. The level of experienced instructors, and structured course both the class and field.
