Figure 1. Single nucleotide polymorphisms (SNP) are DNA variants of the four nucleotides (A – adenine, T - thymine, C - cytosine, G – guanine) that make up the DNA molecule. These SNP are used to predict performance through genomic selection.