

What is the Food Hub ?

The Food Hub is modeled after Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) programs in which people from a community pledge to support their local farms by becoming members or “shareholders” of a farm. However the Food Hub differs from the traditional CSA model in two key ways.

1) The Food Hub is a multi-farm program in which produce and products from about 20 core farms are combined to create the weekly shares. 2) Members of the Food Hub are not shareholders of any of these farms; meaning that while they are supporting local farms, they do not share in the bounty or scarcity of any particular crops. Farmers receive fair prices for their crops while members receive the retail-equivalent of the value they pay for in those crops, delivered to their workplace.

As a member, your benefits include:

- Access to high-quality, locally grown food
- Support for Vermont farmers
- Contribution to the local economy
- Convenience of a workplace delivery
- Weekly newsletter with recipes

For farmers, participation means:

- Fair prices
- Advanced working capital
- Guaranteed market
- Widespread marketing of their products
- Networks with other farmers

Why Buy Local?

Taste — Most food today travels an average of 1300 miles from farm to plate. Buying local means getting tastier and more nutritious food onto your plate, sometimes less than 24 hours after it is picked!

Economy— Buying local means that your food dollars are reinvested in your community and local economy at least twice as much as when you buy out-of-state products from big chain stores.

Small Farms— Supporting small farms preserves the health and well-being of the farmers, the land and the surrounding communities.

Health - Know exactly how your food was grown and who grew it. Enjoy the power of choice to avoid food grown with harmful chemicals and practices.

Environment— Most states import 85-90% of their food supply. Buying local cuts down on pollution from trucking, extra processing and conventional agriculture.

Farm Share Program

The Food Hub is proud to be participating in the Vermont Northeast Organic Farming Association (NOFA-VT) Farm Share program. Farm Share assists limited-income Vermonters in obtaining farm fresh organic fruits and vegetables.

Food Basket relies on member donations to help fund the Farm Share program for qualifying individuals and families. If you would like to make a tax-deductible donation, please send a check made payable to NOFA-VT and send it to the Intervale Center anytime.

The Food Hub is a program of the Intervale Center, a non-profit organization that supports Vermont farmers.
