

To the left of the fence is an area where pigs are running loose and cleaning out the brush with their foraging. To the area to the right of the fence has already been cleared by the pigs. Tom planted rye here as a cover crop.