

Liked how you reviewed the insect and then what beneficials to use to control that insect in one session

---

Fairly new to greenhouse work and scouting. Learned much more about diseases and how they might begin than what I previously knew.

---

I only attended two sessions but I do like how there was the consistent theme covering both insects and disease. I thought y'all had a lot of good information. The consistent theme made it easier to retain the information as the format was familiar as well as some duplicate information. It actually does a lot of good to hear things hit on a few times.

---

The sections on insect identification were the most helpful for my work in the greenhouse.

---

The insect information paired with the biological controls. The disease identification was also very helpful.

---

i found the entire course to be very helpful. I'm fairly new to the greenhouse world (5 years) and learned a lot in this course.

---

Johns Images were very helpful. I bought his book, but I also took a few screenshots of the images you had to post up in my greenhouse so that my part time employees had an image to refer to.

---

The pest identification visuals

---

Nothing I can think of

---

I wish there was a quick outline at the beginning of each webinar of what will be covered.

---

List pesticides you recommend

---

Great refresher and great information for anyone

---

I feel all greenhouse employees would benefit from this course

---

I thought there was a lot of really good information for anyone in any stage of their career in horticulture. There was information for all levels and I do always enjoy hearing how other people deal with pest problems, I definitely learned some good tidbits and some great refreshers.

---

There was a lot more information about bio-controls than I normally find when looking for pest control methods.

---

Was very informative.

---

I would recommend this course to anyone working in a greenhouse to be familiar with possible/probable infestations that are likely to occur.

---

Very informative and useful information
