

Produce Farms

The Livestock Advantage

Join Us!

July 25, 2019

9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. (Noon)

BART Research Farm – Towne's Harvest Garden

2730 West Garfield, Bozeman, MT 59718

Join specialists from the National Center for Appropriate Technology and Montana State University for a discussion of integrating livestock with produce production. Food safety considerations will be outlined and demonstrated.

Learn how integrated crop-livestock production systems may provide sustainable alternatives to conventional methods of termination and tillage practices to improve soil health and produce quality, and take a tour of the MSU BART Research Farm.

This event is free to attend. Light refreshments will be provided. Please register by July 20 to reserve your spot: www.ncat.org/events

For more Information contact Devon Ragen, MSU Research Associate, at (406) 579-1539

www.attra.ncat.org

NATIONAL CENTER
FOR APPROPRIATE
TECHNOLOGY

